Minden lawsuit costs $62,000

The municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden has spent $62,000 in legal fees connected to its lawsuit against the builders of the arena.

At last Thursday's meeting, members of council discussed the trial, which was held in December. The legal fees cover the cost of the township's lawsuit up to and including the trial. There may be a small additional cost if Minden's lawyer has to appear in court when the decision is handed down.

Although the trial ended in early December, the judge reserved her decision, which is expected to be handed down in March.

In the suit, the municipality claimed that illegal building practices used in the arena's construction 20 years ago resulted in corrosion of the steel beams which make up the facility's frame.

Dysart's reeve wants county to review spending

Dysart's reeve says county council should stick to the basics when drafting the 1992 budget.

At last Monday's meeting of Dysart et al council, Reeve Chris Hodgson said the county can limit spending by concentrating on the road system, Hyland Crest Home for the Aged and social services. He said items like waste management, planning, economic development and Gypsy Moth spraying represent "discretionary spending" which can be reviewed when the budget is set.

Preliminary spending estimates will be discussed at this Wednesday's meeting of county council and Hodgson said council is planning to hold public meetings to deal with the budget.

Municipal staff gets 2.6% raise

Wages paid to Minden's municipal employees will increase by 2.6 per cent in 1992.

Council passed a by-law setting the rates of pay for township staff at last Thursday's meeting.

Deputy-Reeve Lewis Stevens, who chaired the meeting in Reeve Bern Berry's absence, said the increase was determined after meetings with the various department heads.

"We arrived at a reasonable solution is everyone's interests. It was an increase that we felt reasonably good about," said Stevens. "The employees accepted the realization that restraint is required at this time."

Mushers converge on Minden

Plenty of snow for derby

There was no lack of snow

The re-scheduled sled dog derby did not experience any of the weather problems which forced the postponement in January. As the first mushers were leaving the starting chute on Saturday morning, a heavy snowfall began which continued for the most of the day.

The conditions didn't deter the spectators or the competitors and both of last year's winners in the eight and four-dog races successfully defended their titles.

Terri Killam of Northboro, Mass. repeated her win of last year to capture the eight dog title, while Stuart Osthoff of Ely, Minnesota took top spot in the four dog division.

MNR pulls funding for spraying

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Ministry of Natural Resources has cancelled the 1991 gypsy moth spray program, but Haliburton County may carry out the spraying without provincial funding.

In press release issued last Thursday, the natural resources minister Bud Wildman said money from the spray program will be used for other programs.

"MNR is re-allocating about $3.8 million in funding for these spraying programs to other higher-priority initiatives in its forestry program," Wildman is quoted as saying. "We need to reduce the cost to taxpayers for managing gypsy moths on private land and at the same time provide landowners with information that will help them make decisions on maintaining the health of their woodlands."

Lutterworth Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon, who chairs the county's forest health committee, says he was not surprised by the ministry's announcement. "No, my prediction just about hit right on," he said. "It is a real bad, bad decision."

At a recent meeting of Ontario's Gypsy Moth Management Committee, the ministry told the 24 municipalities involved in the spray program that the spraying would take place this year, but would end in 1993.

Cindy Krishka, the forest health coordinator at the MNR's Tweed office, says the decision to move the cancellation up by a year was financially motivated.

The ministry is planning to replace the spraying with a forest health information and awareness program. Under this initiative, the province will provide funding to counties for the hiring of a forest health information officer.

In light of the earlier than expected cancellation, Krishka says the forest health information program will be offered in 1992 to those

Health care reforms still on track

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The pace of reform in Haliburton County's health and social services will quicken in the next couple of weeks, Stanhope council has been told.

Last Wednesday council met with Doug Campbell and Jack Brezina, two members of the committee which developed the directional plan for the county's health, housing and social service needs.

The report, which was accepted by the province last September, contains recommendations for improving the services available to local residents.

Members of the steering committee have offered to meet with local councils to update politicians on the progress of the reforms and to answer any questions about the directional plan.

Brezina said the need for the directional plan arose after the provincial government delayed the proposed 18-bed chronic care addition to the Haliburton Hospital. He said most of the reasons given by the province for delaying the expansion were "bogus" and designed to buy time for the government.

At the same time the Haliburton chronic care addition was receiving ministry approval, the provincial government was trying to find a new approach to health care which would place less emphasis on institutions and reduce the size of the health care budget.

Brezina said the ministry will not approve chronic care beds for Haliburton County and they will be replaced by long-term care beds. The directional plan recommended 40 additional long-term care beds for the county and the province has approved the funding to create 30 new beds.

While the capital cost for chronic care facilities is $250,000 per bed, the cost for long-term care beds is $74,000 each.

There will also be changes to how the province provides funding for long-term care. Hyland Crest, the home for the aged run by the county, currently receives funding to operate 42 residential beds and 20 extended care beds.

Because most of the residents occupying residential beds actually required extended

Teens support suggestion for drop-in centre

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

An open air skating rink, a drop-in centre and more recreational activities.

Those are some of the things that local youth say are required in the Minden area to keep kids off the street and out of trouble.

About a dozen local young people met with the Minden community policing committee last Wednesday to discuss their needs in the area.

Kerry Brezina said people always talk about the problem of kids hanging out on the main street, and she suggested that something else has to be found for them to do, like more frequent dances or a teen club.

Committee chairman Doug Campbell said similar suggestion were also made when the police committee met with seniors and parents at previous focus groups.

One of the issues that arose out of the discussion with the youths was how to accommodate a wide variety of age groups, which could range from 13 to 18 years old.

Some of the participants said older teens do not want to be grouped together with the younger teens in the same activities.

Thelda McGuire, one of the organizers of the Soda Club in Stanhope, said her committee tried running the Club on two nights to accommodate the different age groups, but not enough older teens attended to keep the second night going.

Campbell said it is important that the planning of any activities should involve the teens themselves and not be organized strictly by adults. Brezina said there are teens in the area who would help organize a club for young people, if they were approached to do so.

Beth Fast, who runs a youth program through the Minden Bible Church, said she's been interested in setting up a youth drop-in centre for some time. She said such a centre should offer more than just entertainment, but also be a place where young people can get information on issues like drug, alcohol and family problems and receive help and counselling if required.

She suggested that the centre could be used by the teens in the evening and also used by seniors during the day.

Peter Lindsay, who works with Fast in running the youth groups, said the young people who are hanging out downtown aren't out to cause trouble or hurt anyone but "just want some place to sit and talk."

He said a drop-in centre could give teens a place to go where they could play cards, listen to music or talk instead of going out and getting into trouble.

Michelle Gartshore, one of the teens at the meeting, said young people need more than just dances. She suggested that there should be other recreational activities available like open-air skating and other sports activities, including access to a gym.

"Young people would get more respect if they had something to do and weren't hanging out on the street," she said.

McGuire said she would like to see a centrally-located building which offered young people a variety of activities, both quiet and active. "All we hear about it dances, and they're great, but they have so many other interests," she said. Being involved with the Soda Club, McGuire said one of the problems is finding volunteers to run the programs.

While the community centre has been suggested as a possible location to hold youth activities, many people feel a downtown location is preferable because that is where teens like to gather.

Another concern is that the cost of renting the community centre prohibit use by non-profit organizations.

Campbell said there is no point in having a facility like the community centre is it is going to be priced out of business.

"There is no reason that place shouldn't be going 18 hours a day, seven days a week," he said. "If it's a case of money, perhaps the service clubs will be prepared to chip in."

Committee member Gord Monk agreed. "The community centre belongs to all the people and I would like to see it made available very readily," he said. "I don't see how you can evaluate cost versus benefit. Yes, it's costly, but having the building sit empty is costly too."

The police committee's next focus group will be held with business owners on Wednesday, February 26, at 7:30 in the council chambers.

The meeting with the businesses will be the last of the focus groups. The committee will prepare a report and recommendations based on the information gathered from the meetings and will present the findings to the OPP, Minden council, and the residents of the village.

County may carry on spraying

municipalities which were part of the gypsy moth spray program. The program will be offered to other parts of the province in 1993.

Krishka says the province will also continue to fund the administrative costs of the gypsy moth program for the next six months to allow municipalities to wrap up the program and return the money paid by landowners.

Despite the withdrawal of provincial funding, McMahon says there is still a possibility that the county can coordinate a spray program for private landowners without the county having to pick up the costs.

He says Andy Paul, the county's gypsy moth coordinator, is compiling data about the total number of applications for spraying in Haliburton County, and the estimated cost of the program.

By going on its own and hiring a private sprayer, McMahon says the county will be able to avoid some of the conditions imposed by the MNR, such as the requirement that spray blocks be no less than 10 acres in area.

He says the issue will be at the top of county council's agenda for this Wednesday's meeting and the information about the cost of the program will be presented at that time.

Last year, the MNR spent about $4 million to spray for gypsy moths which represents about 85 per cent of the total cost.

Kinmount Legion Public Speaking winners

The Kinmount Legion hosted its annual public speaking contest for students of the Kinmount Public School last Monday.

Amanda Magee placed first in the senior division with her humorous speech about her brother Jeremy. A speech about the impending closure of Kinmount's school was good enough to give Robynne Kilby first place in the junior division.

Second place honours in the senior division went to Carrie Pearson for her discussion title "Trimming the Fat" and Jeff Pearson placed second in the junior division with his speech about the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

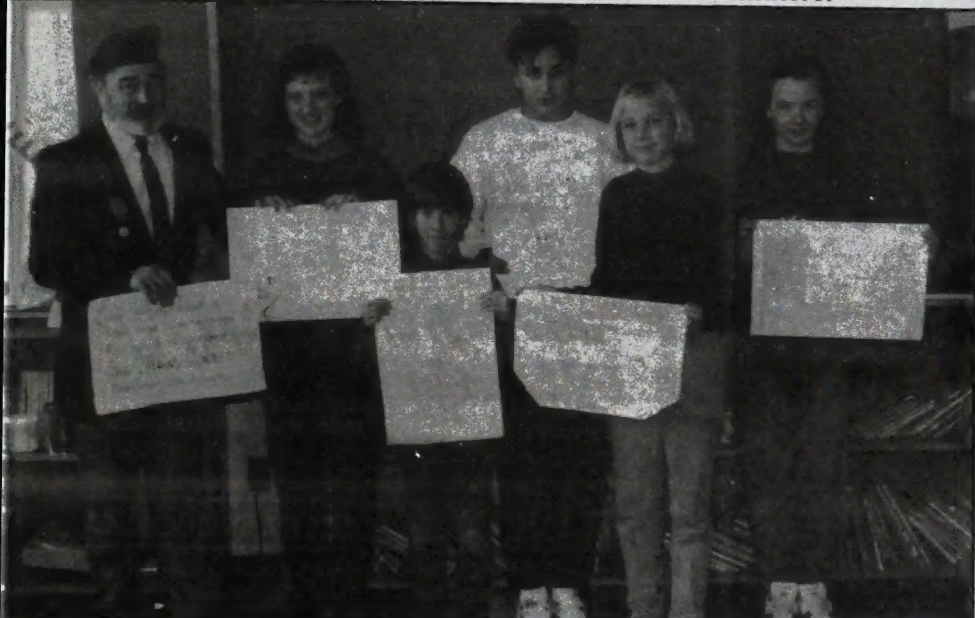

Kristi Barkwell, who spoke about Terry Anderson, placed third in the senior division and Julie Windrum was third among the juniors for her speech about, complete with costume, about karate.

The Legion also held a contest for students who designed posters promoting the speaking contest. Junior winners, in order, were Barbara Johnston, Mathew Buzzell and Jenny Rolfe. Senior winners were Kristi Barkwell, Darryl Dettman and Jessica Bowman.

Senior winners Amanda Magee, Carrie Pearson and Kristi Barkwell with Legion President Al Jopling who presented the certificates to the winners.

Local politicians say municipal reforms go too far

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Proposed reforms to municipal conflict of interest legislation will scare people away from serving on council and committees, say local politicians.

The Ontario government is currently circulating a draft paper which outlines changes to the rules which govern how municipal governments operate.

Among the reforms, the province is proposing that municipal councillors, and committee members, report personal assets and sources of income and that this information be made available to the public.

These changes were prompted by scandals several years ago where some municipal politicians in southern Ontario were linked to developers and charged with conflict of interest.

But councillors in Haliburton County say the measures proposed by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs go too far and will make people unwilling to stand for office or join a committee.

At last Monday's Dysart et al council meeting, Lloyd Leadbeater said the public should not have access to the kind of information the ministry wants disclosed.

"It's basically wrong," he said. "The public should not be privy to the private information of individuals." Leadbeater suggested the information could be given to an auditor and held in confidence unless a problem with conflict of interest arises.

At Stanhope's council meeting, Reeve Fred Gardner said the draft legislation is a scary thing. "Why would anyone stand for council or a committee?" he asked. "All councils and committee members in the province should say that upon the passing of this legislation they are prepared to resign."

If unchanged, the legislation would also make it much easier for private citizens to launch an investigation into the activities of municipal politicians.

By simply sending a letter to the provincial government, anyone could request an inquiry by a specially appointed commission, with all costs to be paid by the municipality.

Some councillors are concerned that the process will allow disgruntled residents to initiate a costly investigation for frivolous reasons.

"The process should be available to the general public, but not people who want to stir the pot for no good reason," said Leadbeater.

The province has invited municipalities to comment on the proposed legislation by March 31. Dysart, Stanhope and Minden councils will all be preparing submissions which cover their concerns about the legislation.

care, the home does not receive funding which reflects the amount of care it is providing.

The new system will see institutions like Hyland Crest receive funding based on the needs of the residents, not the type of bed they occupy. As a resident requires more care, the amount of money paid by the province will increase.

Campbell presented Stanhope council with the findings of a demographic study which was conducted as part of the steering committee's research.

By breaking down the population of Haliburton County according to township, Campbell said about 57 per cent of the population lives within the service area of the Minden Hospital and 43 per cent lives within the service area of the Haliburton Hospital.

Brezina said a development coordinator has been hired to oversee the reforms to Haliburton County's long-term services and a committee consisting of local residents is being formed to decide how those reforms will be achieved.

Reeve Fred Gardner questioned the mandate of the committee and whether or not it would be repeating the work carried out by the steering committee which developed the directional plan.

Deputy-Reeve Eleanor Harrison said it doesn't seem like there has been any progress since the report was accepted by the province last year.

"Why don't we see it moving ahead?" she asked. "It seems like another study to study the study."

The new committee will carry on the reform process, said Brezina. "We did the investigation and came up with recommendations. The new committee will take those recommendations and do them."

He said some of the activities going on are not obvious. As an example, he said $350,000 has been assigned to improve in-home services in the county.

"A lot of the recommendations have to wait for the new committee to be formed," he said. "You should see more action in the next little while."

"For me, the speed of this is terrible," said Campbell. "I'm just as appalled as you are." With three provincial ministries involved, Campbell said there is probably some "protection of home turf" going on.

He told council that Haliburton County's directional plan is the only one in the province which has been accepted and funded by the province and the county is on the leading edge of long-term reform in Ontario.

Killam and Osthoff defend Techni-cal Challenge titles

Despite the heavy, wet snowfall Saturday and mild conditions on Sunday, Osthoff managed to shave two and a half minutes off his time from last year to complete the two, four mile legs of the race in a surprising 31:59.50. Osthoff was 27 seconds ahead of second place finisher John Samburgh of Paul Smith's, New York, with 32:26.78. Jason Gore of Englehart was the top Canadian in the four dog class with a time of 32:59.87.

The tough trail conditions seemed to be more trying on the eight dog teams. Killam completed the course in 1 hour 31.10 seconds, 6 minutes and 37 second slower than her winning time last year. Her victory was even more surprising considering the fact she had placed seventh in the Saturday heat. Years of training and her strong determination pushed her to the front of the pack in Sunday's heat, finishing 18 seconds ahead of her nearest competitor for the day. Second place in the eight dog competition went to Ken Maxson of Lowville, New York with a total time of one hour 55.97 seconds while Richard Therrien of St. Emile, Quebec was third, and the top Canadian in this class, at one hour 59.87 seconds.

Minden resident Val Lougheed placed 21st among the 37 teams entered in the four dog event with her combined time of 36:35.16. Lougheed's husband Steve placed 18th out of 34 in the eight dog competition with a combined time of 1:04:31.60.

The Minden Techni-cal Challenge sled dog derby is sponsored by Martin Pet Foods of Elmira. The total purse for the event is $25,100. Top prize in the eight dog class was $3100 while the winner of the four dog race took home $1600.

A welcome sign

Community spirit is alive and well in Haliburton County.

Last weekend was a welcome tonic, a kind of emotional kick in the pants, which we all needed to shake off the collective case of doldrums which had taken hold of the county.

With another successful sled dog derby and the annual Rockbuster Bonspiel in Minden, the Winter Carnival in Haliburton and the usual attraction of hockey, snowmobiling and winter pursuits, Haliburton County was transformed into a winter Mecca which brought in visitors from across the province.

By doing what residents of this county do best, pulling together as a community and working for a common cause, we were able to put aside the recent trend of bad news and grim predictions and expend our efforts toward positive pursuits which not only lifted spirits but paid economic dividends as well.

This is not to say that we can make our problems disappear by ignoring them and the county is still struggling with too many people unemployed and too many people needing social assistance to live.

But this success of this past weekend should serve as a valuable lesson to the residents of Haliburton County. We can, in the face of adversity, pull together and persevere. If we can find success and community spirit in the middle of February, and despite our problems, then there is no reason we can't find similar success in March, April, June and every other month.

The keys to Haliburton's success are the cooperation, volunteerism and "community first" attitude which residents of this county so aptly demonstrated during the weekend.

It has become clear that it will be up to us, as a community, to pull ourselves out of the recession, because no one is going to do it for us. By pulling together and relying on each other for support, we can prevail.

If we give up and retreat into solitude, we fail alone.

Some of the best laughs are unintentional

Accuracy is to a newspaper what virtue is to a lady, but a newspaper can always print a retraction.

Adlai Stevenson

Ah, newspapers. History as fishwrap, their critics call 'em, but I love the imperfect little beggars. For me, newspapers do far more than deliver the news. They give me pleasure, leisure, provocation and, every once in a while, a belly chuckle or two.

And I don't mean the comics.

Some of the best wits I know toil in the bowels of dailies and weeklies across Canada. Some of the biggest bozos too. It makes for a heady and unpredictable brew. It also makes for a lot of humor, much of it unintentional.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

Not that it's an exclusively Canadian phenomenon. Back in the days when doughty little Britain was a major international player and the European Common Market had never been dreamed of, the newspapers of the Island Kingdom were famous for their, umm, insularity. As typified by the headline that in a London daily following a blizzard. Huge Storm. Continent Cut Off.

Then there was the parochial approach used by the Aberdeen newspaper to report the sinking of the Titanic. The Scottish headline read: Aberdeen Man Lost At Sea.

But those are laughs at the expense of the newspapers. I enjoy it even more when a headline writer or a caption slinger takes a look at a story or photo, scratches his or her ink-stained mandible, and comes up with the perfect typographical summation.

Such as the New York Times headline that ran above an article about timekeepers at male track meets. Over a photograph of a half dozen men earnestly peering at their stopwatches, ran the headline

These Are The Souls That Time Men's Tries.

Then there was the photo of an unusual lower mainland (more on page 7)

Option chosen by school board is more expensive

Editor:

This is a copy of a letter that was sent to comment upon the proposals of the accommodation committee. To date there has been no acknowledgement from any save Mary-Ann Wilson. It appears that the people in the position to make decisions do not want to be bothered by the public or acknowledge that there may be problems with their decision making criteria.

For this reason I have sent a copy of this letter to your paper in the hopes of generating some public response to the arrogant stand taken by the Board of Education in this matter.

Yours truly,
Bryan Kernohan

Dear Mr. Bunn, Mrs. Ladarantaye and Mrs. Wilson:

On January 13, 1992, I attended a meeting at Archie Stouffer Public School with a number of other parents and rate payers. The advertisement for the meeting stated that some major decisions had been made concerning the future accommodation of our children. As it turns out, the use of the past tense was appropriate. Regardless of the concerns expressed by those with the interest to attend this meeting, there was no indication from any members of the head table or the elected trustees that they were interested in hearing any comments that did not support the decision already made. Further, the meeting was adjourned with out presenting to the parents some other forum in which their concerns could be heard. It was mentioned by the head table that any decision they had made would result in some disgruntled parents and that the Minden vs. Haliburton rivalry would make them unable to please everyone. This appeared to justify the committee not listening to anyone. The impression left with many of those attending was that the meeting was an unpleasant necessity called by those making the decisions in order that it may be said that a public forum had been held. If some process of input had been provided at this meeting, letters such as this would not be necessary.

Since the meeting was called to inform us of the decisions made on our behalf, a handout of the various options considered, including the data projections of student enrollment up to 1998, was distributed. Four options were presented with dollar values applied to various parts of each option resulting in a total dollar figure. It was then stated that the least expensive option (that being Option Four) had been chosen. In other words, case closed.

As the handout contains limited information, there must be much more to which we, the rate payers, were not privy. Therefore, it is only this information and a little common sense from which we can determine whether the decision made by the School Board was the better one. It appears from this limited information that there are genuine reasons for concern.

Of the four options presented, only Options One and Four are truly feasible. There is only a 5.9% difference in the total cost of these two options as detailed in the handout. From an inspection of these two options, I contend that there are sufficient discrepancies in the costing to make Option One the least expensive by 17.4%.

To elaborate, in Option One, a cost of $1.3 million was included to add a double gymnasium and $750 000 was included to upgrade the cafeteria at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. These additions were "deemed" necessary when the projected increase in the high school population will only be 124 students by 1998! Alternatively, in Option Four which entails the construction of a new 26 room elementary school in Haliburton, translating into 520 students, only a single gymnasium and no cafeteria facilities have been proposed. I contend that an additional six room does not justify a double gymnasium and some more cost effective method could be found rather than spending ($750 000/124 students) $6 408.00 per student on a place to eat. Conservatively, I feel that there should be a reduction in Option One's budget of one half the cost of the double gymnasium and one third the cost of the cafeteria expansion. Ideally, if properly proposed, Option Four would have included a double gymnasium and lunch room at a cost of additional $800 000. Added together this would make Option One's budget $7 200 000 and Option Four's budget $8 450 000 making Option One the most cost effective, being 17.4% cheaper than Option Four.

A further concern from a child safety and cost point of view becomes evident from an inspection of the student projection data. In Option Four, grade 7 and 8 students will have to be bused to Haliburton to attend a new Junior High School. From the data presented by the school board, it may be seen that there is no yearly increase in enrollment in the Haliburton elementary system after 1992. The yearly increases occur in the Minden area. As students attending school in Minden are on average further from Haliburton than from Minden, it seems obvious that there will be more cost for busing, more buses on the road and more mid-route transfers taking place. This increases the likelihood of an accident occurring like the near miss on Scott's Dam Road. The increased distance will also mean that more students from ages 11 to 13 will be forced into a longer day before it is really necessary. It is also a fact of life that students that are bused are not able to take full advantage of the facilities provided.

A further consideration is the rivalry between Minden and Haliburton. Unfortunately this is a fact of life and the chosen option should reflect the very real concern that the final result has been based on sound principles and not political infighting. As our communities are both small, the loss of jobs and tax base are very important. Option Four will result in job opportunities being lost in Minden. Teachers moving to the area to work in a Junior High will naturally tend to live close to their place of work. Some parents will locate close to their children's place of primary education in order to help their children take advantage of the facilities and to shorten the child's day so long as it will not interfere with their job opportunities. This will result in an erosion of Minden's tax base. If Minden is left with only a Kindergarten to grade six school there will be no requirement for additional custodians in the future as the school will probably not require an increase in size during our lifetime. These are important considerations that should have been addressed by the School Board. These are costs which were not listed in the pros and cons in the handout. It is this type of consideration which often tips the balance in choosing the better of two reasonable options.

It was stated in the meeting that one of the problems with Option One is that Archie Stouffer would become too large and the teachers would lose touch with the students. Is it not better to consider the additional students a resource? More students translate into more options with regard to special education and will make more types of courses feasible. In comparison, Option One translates into 876 students at Archie Stouffer Public School; Option Four would see three schools crowded onto the same acreage that found it necessary to fill in a swamp for playing field. The total projected student enrollment at this complex would be 1 790 students when full. If size is a negative factor, then Option One should be chosen immediately.

Although there are more concerns that have not been mentioned which would make Option One the better of the two considered, I will conclude by stating that it is not too late to change the decision or at least reconsider the options available. It is possible to increase the size of Archie Stouffer School in Option Four to the size detailed in Option One. This would make both options equal in cost based on the questionable values presented in the handout.

If this were done it would give the School Board time to obtain better input from those who elected them...

Decision flabbergasted reader

Editor:

I, like many retired citizens of Our community, spend a few weeks in the warm south and have me "Times" forwarded to me. It is like getting a long, informed letter from home keeping me up to date.

Most of the time the news is welcome but the recent report regarding the School Board's decision to bus grade 7 and 8 students to another community has left me flabbergasted.

The writer who said in the January 25th edition; "School Board breaks promise to Minden" couldn't have put it more succinctly. The plan to move these children out of town for their education is absolutely wrong.

If it is being done for alleged reasons of economy then the decision's more than wrong, it is inconceivable.

After more than three decades of busing in all of the United States, the state educators and social workers are now aware that this experiment has worked to the detriment of what it was intended for, namely to improve relations inter- racially and inter- ethnically. It just hasn't worked.

It seems to me that the Minden trustees who were so sympathetic to the needs of parents and children prior to election day have reverted back to form. I thought when we collectively returned the whole slate unchanged we had done so because we thought we were re-electing an intelligent and responsible group to manage our education matters. Were we wrong again?

Newspaper wits range from glorious to infamous snowstorm reported in a Vancouver paper a few years back. It showed Vancouverites slipping and sliding across a slushy road, heads bent into the chilly wind. The caption read:

Many Are Cold, But Few Are Frozen.

And there is one fabled headline that I have not been able to verify. I'm not sure I really want to, because it's probably too good to be true. The story goes that Gloria Swanson's New York premiere had to be postponed from a Sunday to the following Monday, because of a flash flood which crippled the and subway systems. The headline that supposedly summed up the situation?

Sic Transit, Gloria Mundi.

From the glorious to the infamous: this double barrelled story from the pages of The Enterprise of Brockton, Massachusetts. In June, the newspaper ran a story in which it named the male customers who had been arrested in the company of hookers. In August, The Enterprise ran an editorial saying that it would continue to publish the names of arrested prostitution customers despite the fact that one man had just killed himself as a result of having been named in the previous Enterprise article.

And the name of the dead man? Sorry, The Enterprise has a policy of protecting the identity of citizens who commit suicide...

My all time favorite, albeit somewhat gruesome journalistic zinger appeared in the Chicago Daily News in an obituary of Richard Loeb back in 1936. Loeb was a college-kid-turned-convicted-child-killer who, while serving his sentence, made a pass at a fellow inmate. The inmate rebuffed Loeb's advances somewhat brusquely, killing Loeb in the process. The lead sentence in the Daily News obituary read: "Richard Loeb the well-known student of English, yesterday ended a sentence with a proposition."

On a less morbid note, I look forward to the day when this wretched recession is over and the Good Times roll again.

The some Hometown headline writer can liven up the front page of the Globe and Mail with the singing headline:

To-Ron-To Boom To-Day!

Teen says friends are the reason she wants to go to adult dances

Editor:

I am writing again about the response to my first letter "Liquor laws make dances difficult to hold." In the last paragraph it stated, "you might find you can have a good time without it" referring to liquor. If I recall I did not mention anything about wanting to go to drink. I wanted to go because my friends were there.

I go to every high-school dance where there is no liquor and I do enjoy myself.

I would also like to say that I spent the entire day on January 25th, where liquor was being served and if I wanted a drink very bad it would not have been very difficult to get one of my friends to get it for me. So what would have been the difference if it had been that night? It still would have caused trouble for the people putting it on.

I do understand the liquor laws are strict and problems do arise, but if what I hear is true at that dance where minors were not allowed, there were many fights and such problems.

Not everyone goes to dances to drink. I personally enjoy just being with my friends and if they are of legal age to drink that is their prerogative and privilege.

County gets recognition on TV weather reports

Editor:

To the citizens of Haliburton County:
WOW! You did it!

On behalf of the Haliburton Highland Chamber of Commerce and all its members, I would like to thank all the people of this County who took the time to write or phone the various television stations which serve our area. Your efforts have paid off. At least one station, CKVR in Barrie has responded to you in a very positive way. Haliburton is now shown prominently on their weather map and our weather is being reported separately and distinctly from surrounding areas.

Congratulations to the Chamber's marketing committee for coming up with this simple but effective idea to put Haliburton County in the public eye.

Thank you for your help and co-operation.

Yours Sincerely,
Rhonda C. Elstone,
President, Chamber of Commerce.

A poetic plea for snowmobiles to stay off sidewalks

Editor:

There's a store
Where snowmobiles whiz past the door,
"That's people having fun you say",
I wish they'd choose a different way.
The sidewalk is supposed to be
A place to walk in safety.
But from my door, you'll hear a scream
As yet another snowmachine

To one of my customers looks pretty mean.
Please, people show a little concern
We don't need an accident before you learn.
Use The Road.
For, in Minden Village, there's a store,
But customers they have no more.
Yet another closes the door.

To ride snowmachines on the sidewalk is against the LAW.
Rosemary Swift.

Hot Dog!

Dog teams pull thousands of people into Minden for eighth annual derby

Sports

Redmen play-offs begin at the Dysart Arena tonight at 6 p.m.

Hartwick goalie Rob Crowe, surrounded by Sid Stamp players, blocks the corner as Dave Pettes tries to jam the puck past Crowe's skates and into the net.

Redmen end season with convincing win

It was a grand way to end the season.

The HHSS Redmen have completed the regular schedule with a 13 goal blitz against Adam Scott Collegiate of Peterborough.

The game was played Tuesday in Peterborough.

The win assures the Redmen of a first place finish in their division and first in the league.

The first place finish gives the team the home ice advantage in the play-offs which begin this week. The Redmen will get the benefit of the third game, if necessary, on home ice as long as the team continues to win.

Once again the Morissette twins led the attacks for the Redmen with Kevin scoring five goals and brother Mark getting credit for five assists. Three of those assists were on his brother's goals.

The remaining eight goals were shared amongst other players on the team, including Jason Billings, Ray Cook, Mike Billings, Bill Bradley, Kevin Buchanan, Wyatt Nesbitt, Jamie Dollo (unassisted) and Derek Wilson. Others notching assists were Greg Stamp, Andy Billings, and Wyatt Nesbitt with a pair each, and singles from Jason Billings, Ray Cook, Mike Billings, and Bill Bradley.

The play-offs begin immediately. Although it was unconfirmed as of press time, the first game, which will be against the fourth place finisher, will be played at the Dysart Arena Monday evening at 6 p.m. A third game, if required, is scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m.

Novice C team wins trophy in Baysville

The Ontario Hydro Novice "C" participated in a tournament in Baysville last weekend and came home with the championship. The boys won all three games with convincing victories.

The first game saw Minden against Huntsville Tally-Ho. This was Jordan Campbell's big game as he scored 4 goals in a lopsided 16-3 victory. The boys were certainly a factor as Ben Carpenter had 3 goals, Jamie Colliss 3, Nicholas Mitchell 1 and Andy Kinsman 1.

Defencemen Adam Tomlinson, Lance Aggett and Greg Vanderlip helped out with assists and good checking to stop the Huntsville offence. Strong goal tending from Mark Snell was there too. Jordan Campbell MVP.

The second game we were expecting a fight match as our opponents, Bracebridge, had scored a big victory similar to our's in the morning, but the boys played spectacularly. Minden led 3-0 after the first period on two goals by Jamie Colliss and a goal by Jamie Colliss from Nicholas Mitchell.

Heads up passing quickly made it 6-0 after 2 periods when goals by Ben Carpenter assisted by Jordan Campbell and Andy Kinsman getting his third and fourth goals assisted by Jamie Colliss.

In the third period Minden completed the 8-0 victory when Jamie Colliss and Ben Carpenter each got their second goals of the game. Shut-out honours go to Mark Snell. A great game by (more on page 11)

Home Hardware on top

The Men's Recreational Hockey League season is over. The teams completed the regular season with the games two weeks ago and last Monday began the play-offs. (The chart below gives the official final positions of the teams.)

The teams have now begun a series of five, round robin games during which all teams will play each of the other squads in the league. The top two in this round robin series will play-off in a best of three final to determine the league champion.

The first of those round robin series started Monday. In the opening game, Hartwick Construction defeated Sid Stamp Fuels 3-1, Home Hardware and Kountry Double D Catering played to a 2-2 tie, and The Times and Westside Jug City ended the evening with a 5-5 tie.

Three players shared the scoring for Hartwick Construction in the only game Monday to find a victor. Jeff Stamp, Barry Boice and Jason Stamp all scored in the winning effort. Jeff Stamp and Boice also picked up an assist each, with a single assist also coming from Sid Mackeigan. Rob Crowe was in net for Hartwick.

Andy Campbell was the lone marksman for Stamp Fuels. Kevin Smith was in net for team.

Doug Ray and Tom Haley shared the scoring honours for Double D in the second game of the evening. Haley also added an assist with Rick Beeney picking up a single assist. Duane Lennie was the Double D netminder.

Gary Harrison scored a single for Home, his goal was unassisted, with the other marker coming off the stick of Corey Gilligan with an assist credited to George Crofts. Terry Crowe the Home goal keeper.

Jerry Campbell and Dave Hartwick led the Westside effort as they scored two goals each. Campbell scored the tying goal. Hartwick also picked up two assists. The other Westside marker came from Jeff Howe who was also (more on page 11)

A deer race was just one of the many events held at the Haliburton Senior Winter Games, which attracted 78 participants to Deer Lodge last Monday.

Senior games held last week

While many of our local Senior Citizens are basking in the Florida sunshine, not all of those who remain in our fair County turn into couch potatoes.

Proof of this could have been seen last Monday when 78 local enthusiasts showed up at Deer Lodge for the first session of the Haliburton Senior Winter Games.

Competitions were held in Euchre and Bridge, with the following results:

- Euchre:
• 1st Irma Dunford & Gwen Taylor

- 2nd Margaret Bull and Anne Winger
- 3rd Ruth Parkers and Ruby Bird

Three competitors tied with the most lone hands - Irma Dunford, Margaret Bull and Robert Lewis, with the latter winning the honor on a high-card draw.

Bridge:

- 1st Jack and Willie Cox
- 2nd Cecile Mcleod and Audrey Deremo
- 3rd Hadden and Lenore Gillespie

The lucky winner of the door prize was Pat Brennan.

In addition to enjoying an excellent meal, Bingo and the ever-popular Deer Races rounded out the day.

Those who missed out on this event will have another opportunity on March 9th, when the second session will be held. Accommodation is limited to the first 100 applications received by the deadline of March 2nd. Registration forms are available at the I.D.A. Drug Store, Minden - Jasco Drugs, Haliburton - Municipal Office, Wilberforce - and Deer Lodge.

Novices unbeaten in tournament

all. MVP was Jamie Colliss.

The final game was against Huntsville Forester Press. Minden opened quickly on two goals by Andy Kinsman, assisted by Nicholas Mitchell. Huntsville replied with one goal in the first, but goaltender Mark Snell and defencemen Lance Aggett, Greg Vanderlip and Adam Tomlinson shut Huntsville down.

Well into the second period Ben Carpenter scored assisted by Jordan Campbell and then Andy Kinsman completed his hat trick. Jamie Colliss added a single in the third to give Minden a 5-1 victory and the championship. Andy Kinsman received MVP for the game.

Great tournament boys!

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of February 02 to 08, 1992.

February 04, 4cm of snow fell with a pH level of 4.0 and the air path was from Lake Huron/Southwestern Ontario.

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. pH readings less than 4.0 are serious.

Senior curling president Harold McCarthy presents the Valumart trophy to the winning rink of Bill Monks, Lawrence McConkey, Jim Warnica and Ken Williams.

The top finishers in the first draw of the bonspiel was the Port Hope rink of Ray Inch, Jim Gilmer, Ross Darke and Cliff Donahue of the Dalewood Curling Club.

Oshawa rink takes first place in Valumart Seniors Bonspiel

By Aileen Blears:

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up at the Minden Curling Club! (with apologies to Robert Service.)

Another highly successful Valumart Bonspiel was enjoyed from teams from Oshawa, Beaverton, Bobcageon, Woodville, Port Hope, Haliburton, Peterborough and Minden on Tuesday, February 11, 1992.

It was a cold morning as teams began arriving anxious to warm up with steaming mugs of coffee laced with cream and/or —. Newly-born doughnuts accompanied the coffee.

The success of the 'spiel was not surprising as Bill Milford got together with the Valumart people early in the season to make it so.

Compliments to Valumart on the interest shown, and many thanks for the generous prizes, and for the snack food which they donated.

The lunch was, as usual, up to the highest standard. Angela O'Neill and her ladies along with George Moulton, served delicious soup, 'make-your-own' Kaiser bunwiches, and 'afters'.

The overall winning team, and recipient of the Valumart Trophy, was from Oshawa. This team was skipped by Bill Monks who was ably assisted by Lawrence McConkey, Jim Warnica and Ken Williams. Dalewood Curling Club from Port Hope was the winner of the first draws; skip Roy Inch, vice Jim Gilmer, second Ross Darke, lead Cliff Donahue. Bancroft, Haliburton and Beaverton followed Port Hope in the first draw.

Oshawa was in first place in the second draw, and, as noted earlier, was the overall winner. Port Hope, Peterborough and Haliburton were runners-up in the second draw. (Minden where were you?)

Laxton council rejects reassessment plan

by Jerry Grozelle

The council of Laxton, Digby and Longford Townships has directed the reeve to vote against the proposed market value re-assessment study when the issue comes before county council.

Council lars spent close to an hour listening to, and firing questions at, Roy Fagan and Paul Lindquist during the February council meeting in Norland.

Fagan and Lindquist, representatives of the Victoria County Assessment Office, were there to explain the findings of a study aimed at county-wide re-assessment of taxes. Fagan pointed out that the changes would not result in an overall increase of the tax base, but would reshuffle the burden.

Producing three booklets, the county representatives explained where the shifts would take place if either of two options were adopted.

"We're not here to promote the program," Fagan emphasized. "It is cash neutral, not a cash generating mechanism."

Fagan explained that if the re-assessment proposals were approved by a majority of the municipalities within the county, they would be locked in to an automatic update every four years.

"The whole purpose of the study was to find ways to equalize county and school taxes across the county," Fagan said, adding that individual school taxes vary from $386 to $864 on properties which have a selling price of $100,000.

Currently, Laxton, Digby and Longford properties are assessed at 1984 values. Under the new system, if it is adopted, farm properties across the county would be assessed at a lower rate, as would commercial and industrial properties.

Reeve Doug Horton pointed out that 75 per cent of his municipality's residential property owners would see their taxes increase by an average of $130. Hardest hit among those residential property owners would be those who live in waterfront homes.

Councillor John Macklem, an accountant by trade, thinks that it would be unfair to put an extra tax burden on owners of waterfront homes. Living on the shore of Head Lake himself, Macklem said that he knows of many people who have lived along the lake for many years who are now retired and on fixed incomes. He feels that they should not be forced to shoulder the extra burden because the value of lakefront property has increased.

"I find it highly questionable as to what the benefit (of the proposed re-assessment) would be," Macklem said. "I think the mandate is ill-conceived a little bit."

During the discussion with Fagan and Lindquist, Macklem stated that, as he saw it, "the winners in this tax shuffle lottery are commercial and industrial property owners in Lindsay and farm owners across the county." He got no argument from the assessment representatives on that observation.

Laxton council passed a resolution (unanimously) directing its representative to vote against the proposal when the 18 municipalities meet to decide whether or not to go the re-assessment route.

A minimum of 10 of the municipalities must support re-assessment for the program to be adopted.

Legion honours OPP and The Times

The Minden Royal Canadian Legion paid tribute to several organizations in the community and a number of its members who have made special contributions to the branch over the past year. The awards evening was held January 25 at the branch.

Staff Sergeant Bill Elliott accepted a certificate of appreciation on behalf of the members of the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. As well, publisher Jack Brezina received a similar certificate, presented to The Times. Both organization were thanked for their ongoing contribution to the Legion's activities.

The branch also paid tribute to the many members who had made a special effort to help the branch to grow and reach out to the community. In addition to the certificates, a number of pins recognizing years of service and service in executive positions was presented.

Deputy District Commander Ken Bell of Omeme made the presentations on behalf of the local branch. He told the gathering Branch 636 has an enviable reputation for its growth and vitality.

He challenged the members to continue that dedication and expand their service to the community.

The Deputy Commander was presented with a decorative plate as a memento of his visit.

Prior to the presentation of the awards, the members and guests enjoy a roast beef dinner and hour of fellowship.

Jackknives and Inkwells

by Kenneth C. Hone

This week we present the final two chapters of Jackknives and Inkwells, Ken Hone's account of going to a one-room schoolhouse in Stanhope in the 1950s and '60s.

Chapter 6 - Sunday School

I was never raised as much of a churchgoer, apart from weddings and funerals I can't remember going there much, but as if five days a week at the schoolhouse weren't enough my Mom and Dad were fairly insistent on my going back on Sundays for an hour of Sunday school. It seems that they didn't realize that this was not compulsory or something.

Really the most difficult part was getting down there. I had to dress up for this activity, making it twice as distasteful, but once you actually got there it wasn't so bad.

The Sunday School was run by Mr. Mason with the help of Mrs. Adamson or Mrs. Welch or Mrs. Gartshore. We would open with a prayer, and then have a couple of hymns. Then we would split up, the older children staying upstairs and the smaller ones going downstairs.

Upstairs we would get a Bible reading or a lesson. If we were lucky, Mr. Mason would illustrate the lesson with a felt board with little paper figures stuck on by static electricity. If we were really lucky we would get a slide show on a Bible story. This was pretty easy to take.

Not so easy to take was the homework assignment. I always forgot to memorize the passage I'd been assigned last week and felt like a dummy. Another thing I wasn't very good at was "drawing swords". In this exercise

Mr. Mason would toss off a number like "Corinthians 1, 15., draw swords!" and we would race through our Bibles to be the first to find that verse. The one who found the verse would read it, and got a point for it. I didn't get too many points for "Drawing Swords".

While this was going on upstairs, the smaller kids down in the basement were getting a lesson usually followed by colouring in the pictures.

When we were dismissed we wound up taking home several pieces of inspirational literature suitable for our ages.

Truth to tell I thought Sunday School was a bit foolish. I certainly wasn't going to take it too seriously. But I was surrounded with fundamentalist Christians. Everyone, even the bad boys, had to pay lip service to Christianity and the Bible, and I really did like Mr. Mason and the ladies. I used to help with bringing in the cattle and haying with these people and I knew they were all good folks, even if their religion was a bit kooky. I mean these people thought that the entire world was just six thousand years old for Pete's sake. Didn't they know about science? Oh yeah, they knew alright. Evolution was just a theory and came from the Devil.

I was quite confused for years about this religion thing and for a while in high school was a kind of trendy atheist. But years later I realized that I was hooked. Gee, I really had been listening all along. Finally I gave in. Yes I was a Christian, even though not of the type my Sunday School teachers had tried to make me.

Today it doesn't seem so foolish. I can even live with the idea that the world is only six thousand years old, maybe, and have no use for the theory of evolution. If some day my Lord sees fit to welcome me, it will be because my Mom and Dad made me go to that Sunday School and because Mr. Mason and the others were there to give me enough instruction to help me find my way to Him.

Chapter 7 - Grade Eight

All Good Things Must Come To An End

It was the spring of 1964, a warm, sunny day, and I was in charge of the record player. One of the girls had brought it in and now they danced on the grass to the sounds of The Dave Clark Five while I stood on the fire escape waiting to change the 45 RPM disc. It struck me right then that I would remember that moment all my life, and I determinedly studied my surroundings and feelings and even the smells and sounds to capture them forever, a snapshot in my mind.

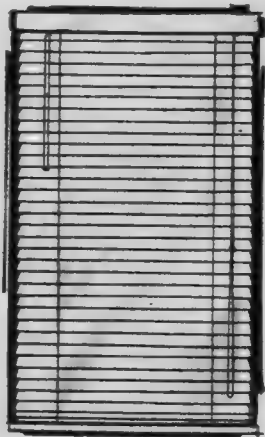

If all went well, in a few months I and the rest of the grade eights would be saying goodbye to S.S. #3 Stanhope school and journeying by bus thirty miles to high school. I think my feelings were general, and encompassed joy, hope, fear and sadness. I had spent ten years in that school and even though I did not much care for school, I cared a lot for my life there, and knew that it was soon to disappear forever into I knew not what. Beyond our own feelings though, there was another feeling. There was a rumour that the school might indeed have to close down all together. There was a feeling then that not only the grade eight kids who would normally have been leaving, but also the rest of the kids, the lower grades might also most abnormally be leaving as well. Perhaps, for all I knew, there was an even more ill defined, more general feeling in the community that something historic was about to happen. It seems to me that at that time there were members of the school board who were split on the decision to close the school. Some, no doubt, were glad to be rid of the responsibility of running the school, perhaps there was talk of mill rates, arguments about the wisdom of busing kids such a distance, perhaps some saw honoured positions on the school board being lost to them, I don't know. In any case, it certainly wasn't up to the local school board to make the decision. A provincial cabinet minister miles away in Queen's Park named Bill Davis had that responsibility, and he and his colleagues had already decided.

In the end, with the good will and determination of Mrs. Warder, I passed that year. As always, I had excelled in English and history, done tolerably well in science, spelling and social studies and just managed a bare fifty one percent in math. Good enough to go on. Ten years to do eight grades and a couple of those grades had been conditional on my repeating last year's math. Good enough to go on.

I don't remember being ecstatic about passing. All my life I had looked forward to going back to school in September with trepidation, I looked forward to grade nine with outright terror. Somewhere during the summer we had a grade eight graduation supper. It was held in the new hall attached to Zion United Church in Carnarvon and was for all the graduates of the Stanhope schools. We dressed up in our best. It was hot. Supper was nice. We got a piece of paper. Easy.

That summer went by in a blur as I worked at Johnny Down's general store at Halls Lake. It seemed like I worked from eight in the morning until eight at night, six days a week, and I received twenty five dollars a week for it. I kind of liked it though. I thought twenty five dollars was lot of money, and it was really neat to run the gas pumps and lean on them and spit and chew the fat with the tourists. Of course you didn't want to get caught chewin' the fat too much. I'll never forget Johnny telling me, "A gentleman might stand around with one hand in his pocket but never with both hands in his pockets!" All this for twenty five dollars a week. Tell the truth, I've often thought since then that Johnny overpaid me. I really didn't know much.

As summer wound down and that dreaded bus ride drew ever nearer, my anxiety level rose. How would I ever find my way around? What devilish delinquents might come from such weird places as Gooderham or Tory Hill, not to mention Minden or Haliburton itself? Surely the kids from Haliburton looked on the high school located in their town as their own property and would treat us as trespassers on their turf!

On the night before the first day of high school I checked to make sure I had everything I would need. The money I had earned at Johnny's had gone into a wardrobe. A couple of pairs of slacks (jeans were not allowed in high school, nor were T-shirts) a new pair of shoes, a couple of new sweaters. For school equipment I had purchased the obligatory stuff, math sets, binders, pens etc. and to top it all off I decided that someone in high school really ought to have a brief case and had splurged some twelve dollars on a massive brown bag with gold plated catch that locked and had all sorts of compartments to carry all those heavy books.

I had finally decided to take my biggest, meanest lock blade knife with me. You never knew when you might get cornered by some black leather jacketed, gum snapping, hair greased psychopath! When it fell out of my pocket, my Dad nearly blew his top. The knife stayed home.

When it all came true, though, it wasn't nearly as frightening as just plain exciting. The four hundred and ninety nine other kids in school were more or less like me, there were miles of corridors, lockers to put your stuff in, a gym, for God's sake, and more rules than I had ever heard in my life. Back at S.S. #3 Stanhope we had few rules and most of those were broken with impunity, but here they even wanted you to walk on the right side of the halls. Wow, that regimentation! Right there I could see that I was going to have to fight all the way through to keep my identity.

The next year, Grade Ten for me, the old school at home finally closed it's doors. In a way, I guess I was lucky. I didn't have to watch it die. That year, we high school students were joined on the bus by the lower grades.

The kids from S.S. #3 were shipped off to join the dwindling enrolment at lower Maple Lake. Everyone knew that the days were numbered for the other Stanhope schools as well. Whereas #3 fell silent, classes continued for a couple of years at lower Maple Lake, then when classes discontinued, that school with a minimum of landscaping and structural modification became the Stanhope Municipal Office and continued as such until last year.

Mr. Mason kept up Sunday School classes at #3 Stanhope for a year or two then that too ceased and the padlock went on for good. The old school stood silent for a couple of years, weeds growing and paint flaking until purchased by a local man for, I think, three thousand dollars. He in turn sold it and after passing through a couple of hands, it wound up in the care of the Draper family and they made some major modifications, putting on a kitchen on the side where the fire escape stood.

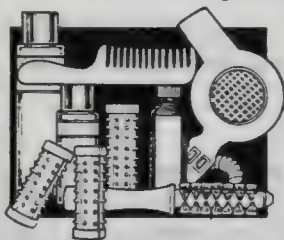

Today the school is owned by my mother-in-law to be. Mrs. Ernest Davies was, for many years, the custodian of the old school and through her hands eventually passed the little brass handbell that rang me to classes thirty five years ago and it sits in my living room today. Her daughter, Barbara, who came to school that first day in grade one with me, also sits in my living room, my wife, luckily enough. A couple of sagging volumes from the school library are in my basement where I wrote this little remembrance. That whole era is in my head and will always be there.

Province has opened up difficult budget process

For the first time in our province's history, a premier spoke on television about our economy. On January 21, Bob Rae opened the books before the budget to share with you a complete report on our finances: what we spend money on, and how we raise and borrow money.

He shared some important information with the people of Ontario, information about the next budget, and about the devastating effect this recession is having on the province. (I don't need to tell you how tough things are for people here in Victoria-Haliburton.) But he also outlined how Ontario is adapting, and how we are taking maximum advantage of new opportunities.

We believe in open government. And we think it's important for the public to understand the economic reality we all face. As far as we're concerned, it's your right to know what's happening to the government's balance sheet - and your tax dollars. Last spring, we promised to open up the budget-making process in Ontario, and the Premier's address is part of the commitment.

For the first time since 1945, the government received LESS money from taxes last year than it did the year before. According to the balance sheet, unless we make real changes this year, our operating deficit will be too high. Bob Rae was clear. And I'll be clear too. That situation is unacceptable to our government, so we are doing all we can to reduce the deficit. The hard part is that during this recession, we are facing difficulties maintaining existing service at existing levels, let alone introduce new services.

Drainville Diary A report from Queen's Park

With Dennis Drainville, MPP

We are wrestling with some of the hardest challenges we've had to confront.

We need to work together. We need to look at our budgets and see where we can make changes — where we can restructure. As a start, we made the tough decision to limit the increase in funds we transfer to agencies like hospitals, schools and municipalities to one per cent this year. They'll get two per cent increases in 1993 and 1994. By announcing the three year allotment, we are giving every one a better chance to plan ahead.

Reconstruction of these services is our goal....The alternative — cutting and slashing of services — is unacceptable. We know these agencies deliver services which are essential to individuals, families and institutions. We can't just abandon people in hard times. Yes, the change will be difficult, but necessary.

Negotiation, co-operation and planning are the keys here. Instead of complaining about lack of money, we must all seek out more effective ways of spending the money we have. How do we make the tax dollars go further while still providing the kind of health care, education, social services we have all come to expect.

We are changing too. We have frozen the salary of politicians and senior civil servants. We have also cut the operating budgets for ministries by 10 per cent. Last fall, we began reviewing 23 of the largest government programs looking at ways to make them more effective and more efficient. The government's recent tentative agreement with its employees - which calls for a 1 per cent wage increase shows that the labour movement is willing to make its contribution to restraint.

There are major challenges ahead for individuals and for boards of directors of services, hospital, and educational institutions. But our province has many strengths and I can tell you that the economy will start to improve. As Premier Rae said, "Let's get ready for the recovery, training our young people, investing in our province...I have confidence that, if we pull together, the greatest years for Ontario and Canada are still ahead."

The budget process continues, it is open to your input.

Hyland Crest residents enjoy two movies

Friday, Jan. 31, 1992, Martha Perkins of the Haliburton Echo phoned to ask me if I would be willing to have her interview me. She had read in my column about Brandon Jarvis adopting me and the idea intrigued her. We set up an interview for Saturday morning here at Hyland Crest. Linda Fry co-ordinated the adopt a grandparent program.

In the afternoon Jackie Yateman, May and Roy Cameron and Melissa Knott from Peterborough took me for a drive to Haliburton and around town here in Minden and we had lunch before they went home.

Sunday evening Rev. John Burgess held the Chapel Service and Alice Jones played the organ. Thank you Rev. Burgess and Alice.

Monday there was bible study at one o'clock led by Evelyn Coleman and we thank her very much.

The first Monday at two o'clock is Residents Council. There was a good number present. It was mostly concerned with reports of past endeavors. Rheta Jones, Administrator, was present and introduced the new Nursing Director, Phyllis Hiltz-

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Bontje. Doris Robertson and Isobel Keefer, liaison between Management and the Residents Council were also present. The retiring executive were thanked and the new executive were welcomed. Rheta Jones, brought us up to date on what has been planned for this year, 1992.

Monday evening Ena and York Marion ran the movies for us, "Stomping Tom" and "Colour in Living". Thank you greatly Ena and York.

Tuesday morning Chapel service was conducted by Ruth Gorrie and the organist was Gwen Cox. The Residents thought the service beautiful. In the afternoon a memories quiz was conducted by Greg Sawyer, Doris' helper. It is surprising how much you have forgotten and by really thinking how much comes back.

Thursday Tea Party again. It was provided by the Allsaw Pentacostal Assembly. Ruby Cooper, Elsie McPhail, Kathy Mitchell, Kathy Gartshore and Evelyn

Harrison served the delicious tea. Kathy Mitchell played a selection of gospel music and the ladies sang for us. Thank you every one heartily for a lovely tea party.

In the evening, Thursday, Nancy and Troy Briggs came to call bingo in the auditorium. We had a pleasing evening and thanks Nancy and Troy.

Friday was Happy Hour with Mr. Geddis and Fred Cooper entertaining the Residents and friends. Mr. Geddis played on a portable keyboard and Fred a small accordian. The volunteers who looked after their needs were Don and Ellen Holden and Mary Guilemin. We sincerely thank them all.

Norma and Terry Barnum took me out to lunch. With one thing and another we spent nearly the whole afternoon.

At six o'clock Dianna Morris held reading in the tuck shop. Dianna has been ill since before Christmas, she started another book by Danielle Steele. Glad to have her coming again.

At seven o'clock, Ron Hopkins came to play music for us in the Trillium lounge. He played on a portable keyboard with almost any sound you could mention. It seems after six o'clock our minds stop working, but we enjoyed the music and thank him immensely.

Tax grant offsets rent payment

The Ontario Property Tax Grant provides an annual rebate to eligible Ontario seniors to help offset the cost of their property tax or rental payment. The grant is based in 100% total property tax, or 20% total rent paid on an eligible principal residence, up to a maximum of $600.00.

The grant is paid in two installments. The spring payment equals 50% of the previous year's entitlement and is paid automatically without application. The fall payment is based on an application form which is mailed automatically to most Old Age Security recipients.

If you have not received your application or payment for the fall portion, contact your nearest Information Centre for assistance.

In Haliburton, the centre is located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., open Monday - Friday 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., phone 457-2733. For residents of the Minden area, the centre located in the Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal Building, Milne St., is open Monday & Tuesday 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., phone 286-4100.

Have you considered becoming a volunteer? Further information is available by calling 457-2733.

TALK TO US ABOUT LENNOX

YOU MAY NOT HAVE TO PAY ANOTHER HOME ENERGY BILL UNTIL 2001!

Every Lennox air conditioning and heat pump system keeps the cost of the energy it saves in its owner's pocket. In fact, every model meets or exceeds 1992 Energy Efficiency Standards.

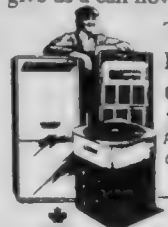

None of that is news.

What is news is that, until June 20, 1992, you can share in some substantial extra Lennox savings as well.

From now 'til then, every new Lennox air conditioner or heat pump buyer will get back the value of from one to twelve months' worth of home energy bills*.

If you decide to get in on the Bonanza, you'll also be eligible for an additional nine years' worth of savings that could cover your energy bills to the year 2001!

We're a participating dealer in the Lennox Energy Saver's Bonanza, so give us a call now, before the hot weather hits.

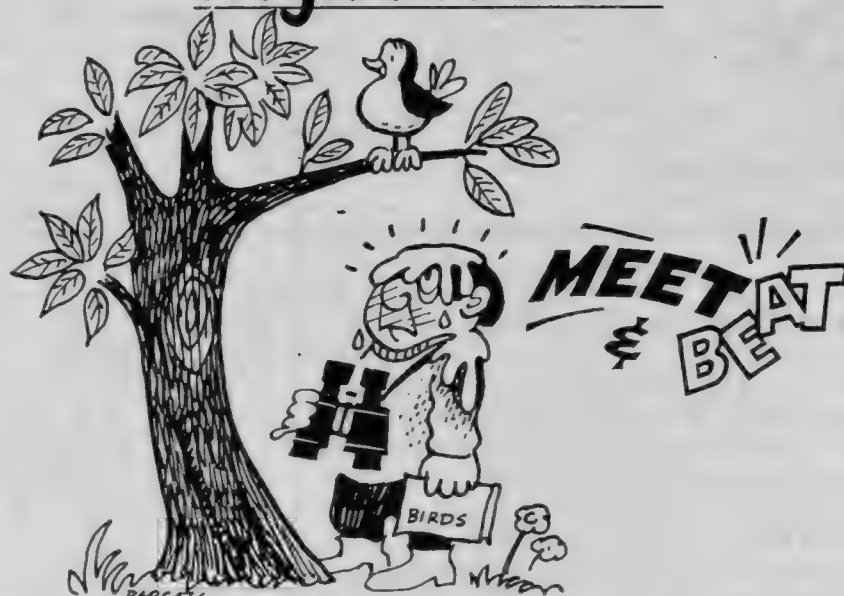

Think how comfortable life would be with a super-efficient Lennox system in your home. And a chance to win more than 100 months worth of energy savings!

*Based on Statistics Canada average monthly costs and paid by Lennox as an instant credit on equipment purchased. You may instead choose to defer payment until January '93. O.A.C. Cannot be combined with any other Lennox offer.

Agnes Jamieson Gallery News

Installation is just about completed for the 1st exhibit of 1992. Selections from the Agnes Jamieson Gallery's permanent collection of art will be on display beginning February 19, 1992.

Thanks to the efforts and generosity of the founding members, as well as recent additions, the Gallery is the home of many pieces of art. From this wonderful collection we have chosen the works of 15 artists.

Twenty-seven paintings by Andre' Lapine are on Exhibit. These show the versatility of Lapine's painting in both oil and watercolour. His subjects range from animals, (his painting of horses was considered outstanding), to landscapes, flowers and the human figure. We have three watercolour paintings of Mrs. Lapine that sensitively capture his model at different stages of her life.

Of our recent acquisitions we have a sketch of swans by local wildlife artist, David Risk, which he has generously donated to the Gallery.

Another hometown artist is George Pratt, who's three sculptures grace our Gallery.

This exhibit officially opens to the public Wednesday, February 19 and runs through to March 14th. Gallery hours are Monday to Saturday 10-4, and is located on Bobcaygeon Road.

HELP WANTED

Tip Of The Week Step #3 is: The Hidden Job Market

The job market is like any other market today. The competition is getting rougher. The more you know about the job market, the better prepared you will be to compete for the job you want. Identify where you would geographically search for work and make a list of prospective employers. Check with your employment center. Read the classified ads. Check with your family and friends and people you have worked with in the past. Everyone you talk to can give you at least one other person to contact!

The Haliburton County Employment Center

2C Sir Sandford Fleming College's Job Training Program requires a Coordinator/Job Preparation Instructor for 18 hours per week. Please check the job board at the Canada Employment Center for more information. 2CD

SHIP HOST(ESS)

The Kawartha Voyageur is a small overnight cruise ship operating 5 day cruises on the Trent-Severn Waterway and Rideau Canal. It carries 24 passengers and a crew of 9. The host(ess) is responsible for the well being and happiness of the passengers, and supervision of the cooks, servers and housekeepers. We require a mature person with successful management experience in related tourism hospitality. This is an unusual opportunity for an on-going association with a solid tourism business. Annual employment from mid April to mid October and living aboard ship during that time. Salary negotiable. Apply in handwriting elaborating on your experience, skills, interests and reasons for your application. Write to Ontario Waterway Cruises, Box 6, Orillia, L3V 6H9.2CD
